Hwa Rang Do

It ended on Saturday night with a WHRDA Awards Banquet and the Black Sash Ceremony. All the Hwa Rang Do, Tae Soo Do instructors and students have sacrificed much in order to participate and support this incredible experience annually as they understand that true value is not only in the Art, but in developing, cultivating, and enriching the human relationships, which is fundamental to living a meaningful life. Many of the outstanding members from all over the world who demonstrated the most their strong character, selflessness, and loyalty were recognized. Then, finally the Black Sash Ceremony concluded the night with the honored tradition that has been kept alive for over 58 generations of Hwarang Warriors; we welcomed and initiated the newest members to the coveted family of Hwarang Knights.

Hwa Rang Do

Grand Master Taejoon Lee as heir to Hwa Rang Do has been trained and taught by his father, our Founder Dr. Joo Bang Lee, since birth for one purpose to lead Hwa Rang Do in the next generation. His strict and disciplined upbringing as well as his multicultural experiences, and his education in philosophy we, Hwa Rang Do students and instructors, are very lucky to have such an uncommon teacher with a 360° vision of the world.

His background ranges from academic to martial, from behavioral to organizational concepts and the overlapping among those concepts are perfectly aligned with the integrated unique framework of the Hwa Rang Do's principles and philosophy. Some words from the Grand Master to better understand the level of his lessons:

"...doing only what you like is the problem of the world filled with all the conveniences for self-pleasure seeking, providing momentary happiness, yet increasingly more people lost in meaninglessness, unhappy, and suicidal. You need self-discipline to do what you don't like doing, which often possess much more intrinsic value. When you are able to do what you don't like, but the things, which you have to such as duty, then you become accountable. You become a trustworthy person, a person of value, and this is what gives meaning to a person. Hence, an accountable person becomes a natural leader whether they want to lead or not..."

"...we all believe in our right to be completely free today. So, we all think that we can say whatever we want, for example in the social networks. But, if everybody can say whatever he/she wants and if everybody is right, then in fact nobody is right and intuitively we all know that truth cannot be subjective. Then, you realize that you can't believe or trust in anyone or anything. That is wrong, there is a Truth, but one must seek it relentlessly until they discover it. All knowledge, including sciences is to find the Truth. And, unless you believe in something, ideally the Truth, there's nothing to stop you from doing what is evil..."

"...we are Hwa Rang Do instructors, this not only means that we're able to teach countless, complex martial techniques, but fundamentally this means that we should be strong enough to carry on our shoulders the problems of others, of our students. We should be able to give them the power to transform themselves into a more stable and powerful person by example, helping them to realize that a person possesses free will to determine their path, understanding that this is power, that they have a choice..."
